DESIGN/BUILD REVIEW

Volume 15: Issue 7

Remodeling or Redecorating? Plan Ahead for Holidays!

Considering new furnishings or window treatments for the holidays? Begin planning now. Most clients are surprised to learn that some finishes and custom furnishings (even those available through traditional retailers) come with an 8-12 week lead time.

When ready to make changes or add new pieces to your home, we suggest working with an interior designer who can "tell your story" by sourcing custom furnishings that fit you, your home, your lifestyle, and your budget. The benefits of working with an interior designer and going custom include:

- More Options. Going custom allows you (and your designer) to choose from an almost infinite variety of colors, patterns, dimensions, and textures when selecting finishes, fabrics, and even area rugs. Sky's the limit!
- Superior Quality. Custom pieces sourced through designers are typically superior in construction and materials (i.e., longevity) as compared to furnishings for sale through traditional retailers. Think solid wood, durable fabrics, hand construction, and natural fillers. It doesn't get any better.
- Competitive Prices. Designers can source high quality custom furnishings (furniture, rugs, accessories, window treatments) at prices that are competitive with "stock" retail items. You don't have to spend a fortune to get good design.
